Everything you need to know for Boston Comic Con 2018

Jeff Goldblum, Jason Momoa and more are coming to town. MATT JUUL

Local comic-book fans are going to be pretty spoiled when Boston Comic Con 2018 takes over the Hub this weekend.

The annual celebration of geek culture routinely brings tens of thousands of people to town, and this year's event is shaping up to be the biggest one yet. Organizers announced that Jeff Goldblum will be one of the featured guests this time around — just one of several big names who are slated to show up in August. Fans can also expect "Star Wars" and "Jurassic Park" attractions, "Harry Potter"-themed escape rooms, cosplay meet-ups and more fun happenings.

Here's everything you need to know for Boston Comic Con 2018.

When is Boston Comic Con?

The 11th installment of the annual event will set up shop at the Boston Convention & Exhibition Center Aug. 10-12. The fun kicks off Friday between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m., before returning on Saturday between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. The final day of the show will be Sunday, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Which celebrities are coming to town this year?

There's a ton of big names slated to ship up to the Hub for this year's Boston Comic Con.

Goldblum will be taking the trip to Boston in order to celebrate the 25th anniversary of "Jurassic Park." The acclaimed actor to take part in autograph and photo sessions, as well as an interactive fan Q&A when he's at the convention.

Batfleck's pal Jason Momoa is also set to return to the Hub for Boston Comic Con again. The "Game of Thrones" and "Justice League" star will appear on Sunday, just a few months before his solo "Aquaman" film hits theaters.

"Back to the Future" legend Michael J. Fox is scheduled to appear Friday and Saturday and will take part in a celebration with his former co-stars Christopher Lloyd, Lea Thompson and

William Shatner

Tom Wilson on Friday night. "Star Wars" actor Billy Dee Williams plus fellow local and "Power Rangers" actress Amy Jo Johnson will be in attendance as well throughout the weekend.

Other celebrity guest appearances include "Ant-Man and the Wasp" star Evangeline Lilly, "Star Trek" icon William Shatner, "Doctor Who" actress Catherine Tate, "Harry Potter" actors Oliver and James Phelps, "The Princess Bride" stars Cary Elwes and Wallace Shawn, Jennifer Morrison, Mark Sheppard, Gregg Sulkin, Jewel Staite, Famke Janssen, Freddie Prinze Jr., Joe Flanigan, Paul Reubens, Brent Spiner, Emma Dumont, Keir Dullea and Gary Lockwood.

Dozens of voice actors and comic creators will also appear throughout the weekend, including "Dragon Ball Z" stars Sean Schemmel and Chris Sabat, "Adventure Time" actor Jeremy Shada, "Pinky and the Brain" icons Maurice LaMarche and Rob Paulsen, as well as DC Entertainment Publisher-Chief Creative Officer Jim Lee, "Batman" writer Tom King and so many more.

3 Questions with voice acting legend Rob Paulsen

From "G.I. Joe" to "Animaniacs," Rob Paulsen has voiced countless characters over the years. The voice acting legend brings his skills to the Hub this weekend for Boston Comic Con, which will include autograph sessions, a live show featuring his "Pinky and the Brain" pal Maurice LaMarche and more. We caught up with Paulsen ahead of his trip to the city.

A lot of people mess up the Boston accent. As a voice acting legend, what's your approach to it?

When I'm working on any dialect, I go for words that are key ways for me to latch on audibly to a particular dialect. Like with Boston, when you hear somebody say "lobster," all those Downeasters, they say "lob" like "lawb," "lawbstuh," and "cah," but it goes way beyond "park ya cah at Harvard yard." It's not about that. And, in my case, it's something that I've always enjoyed doing. I've also known a lot of people from back there who've helped me a great deal with that sort of dialect, like Billy West, another fellow voice guy who's from Detroit, but he also spent a lot of time up there in Fall River, so I know that sound.

The first cartoon I ever did was "G.I. Joe" back in the mid-80s and my character was a guy from Boston. I don't know why, but they wanted him to be a character from Boston and his name was Snow Job. He was this sort of winter soldier who wore all sorts of white garb and had a white rifle, but a red beard.

Fans are pumped about the "Animaniacs" reboot. What can you tell us about the show's return? So [Steven Spielberg] says a few months ago, "Here's what I want to do. One of the things I want to do is a bunch more 'Pinky and the Brains' and 'Animaniacs.'" That's a very big deal. It not only speaks highly to the quality of the original show, but the fact that it also speaks to the power of animation and what Steven wants to put his juice behind. He's very, very involved. This never would've got done without him. Thanks to Warner Bros., Steven and Hulu, they're going to do 26 new half-hour [episodes] for fall of 2020. He is very, very involved, as he was in the first go-around.

You've worked with Spielberg a lot over the years. How much have you enjoyed your experiences with him?

Mr. Spielberg is like a lot of other great people. Bobby Orr is a great example, Gordie Howe is a great example, and I know this because I've had the good fortune of meeting them at charity hockey events, great people like that have a tendency to live their lives as an example. Steven Spielberg is one of those people about whom you'll never find anyone in Hollywood who has anything bad to say about him. It's not because they don't want to piss him off. It's because he's a really, really, really nice man.

Chloë Grace Moretz educates us on conversion therapy and the importance of voting

"The Miseducation of Cameron Post" star opens up about her new film and what's at stake during the midterm elections.

MATT JULI

The horrors of conversion therapy are on full display in "The Miseducation of Cameron Post," which won the grand jury prize at this year's Sundance.

The film stars Chloë Grace Moretz as the title character, a teen who's forced to enter a Christian treatment center to "cure" her attraction to girls. We chatted with Moretz about the toll conversion therapy takes on people and why it's vital for LGBTQ supporters to vote this fall.

After meeting with real survivors, what surprised you the most about conversion therapy?

"The Miseducation of Cameron Post" opens in theaters Aug. 10. FUMISE

One of the first questions I asked each survivor was whether or not they really tried. When they showed up, did they immediately go and understand and realize that this is completely hypocritical, or were they just as committed? Unanimously, the answer from everyone was that they were first and foremost very much so committed and they tried their hardest. It wasn't until years into it, usually around five or six years per person, that they realized that the people in power have absolutely no bearing on reality, no real reliable education to be able to use the psychotherapy in the way they're doing it.

It's interesting to see in the film how language is co-opted to get into these kids' heads. What's hard is that they use simple ideals of therapy in general. The construct isn't the problem, it's the content and what they're trying to do, get across and manipulate. They just steal the construct and the therapy 101 of it all, which is what these camps do. It's an insidious form of manipulation. Not all the camps are shock therapy and reversion and these aggressive forms. It does take a lot more of an insidious and quiet and silent approach to opening the door within yourself of self-doubt. Through that, they let it, like a cancer, run its course throughout yourself as you start to begin to hate who you were born as.

Are you worried about a rollback of LGBTQ progress under the Trump administration?

As wonderful as the leaps and bounds of the Obama administration were, I think we've seen since as the Trump administration has come into effect, we've seen laws and legislation that were passed, I mean, some of which 50 years ago have started being advocated for, are now on the table to potentially be revoked.

I think reality is harrowing and incredibly motivating in a sense that, one of the problems with the Democratic Party is complacency and those who haven't gone out to vote, even though they've been incredibly unhappy with the political standing in America. I think in these midterms we'll really see whether the Democrats will come out and advocate for what's right. I do think that because of the massive juxtaposition in this country and this lack of gray area, it's really polarized people to make decisions. I think you'll see a lot of young people who might not have been registered to vote, who might've felt it as pertinent to get out there and cast their ballot, I think you're going to see them turning out.

When he isn't busy taking home Emmy Awards for series like "The Newsroom" or starring in box office hits like "Dumb and Dumber," Jeff Daniels has somehow found the time to also become a bona fide, touring musician.

"Acoustic guitar is a tricky instrument to play really well, you've got to stay on it," he tells Metro. "That's why I quit golf."

Ditching the golf course for the studio has clearly paid off, as the decorated actor has released a number of albums over the years, penning hundreds of original songs along the way. He's played nearly as many gigs at small venues from coast to coast during this journey, often alongside his son's group the Ben Daniels Band. The Daniels family is back on the road this weekend, including a show at The Cabot on Friday night.

While Daniels, who's earned two more Emmy nominations this year for roles in "Godless" and "The Looming Tower," admits that he doesn't have any chart-topping hits to lure audiences with—acknowledging that many of them show up to his gigs because of his work in film and television—that's never been his goal with music. Instead,

Daniels loves the art form purely because it allows him to take creative risks.

"You look at a James Taylor or Lori McKenna, the people want to hear the hits," Daniels says. "Well I don't have any hits, so I can throw whatever I want at them, and I really enjoy that."

"It's not that you should be vaulted up to the top of the Billboard charts, it's that you're always going for it," he adds. "I appreciate people who are risking failure, who are trying to find that thing that even they haven't thought about yet."

Inspired by blues and folk rock artists like Keb Mo, Chris Stapleton and John Hiatt, the mostly self-taught guitarist strives to achieve a level of originality that his idols have found.

"Especially now, it's so difficult to be original," Daniels says. "You can be different, but are you original?"

Couples Locking Bedroom Door (Again!) Thanks To Natural Intimacy Pill

Powerful new sex aid goes where none has gone before – straight to the brain

SAN FRANCISCO — Here's a 'behind closed doors' trivia question: Do you know the #1 complaint that prevents couples from enjoying a healthy, and fulfilling sex life?

If you guessed erectile dysfunction, you guessed right.

It is estimated that 30 million men, plus their spouses and/or partners are affected by this deflating condition.

Bliss-free Bedroom

Can you guess the next most common complaint that puts the brakes to bliss in the bedroom?

If you guessed loss of sexual desire, in both men and women, you are correct.

These are not easy problems to fix.

For men, doctors may recommend oral drugs or painful, surgical implants.

For women, hormonal therapy may be recommended.

Couples of all ages are turning back the clock with an advanced oral formula that ignites passion and performance in both men and women.

The First Pill for Men ... and Women

Thanks to a stunning breakthrough in nutritional science, now there's a prescription-free discovery that not only gives men the vigorous, healthy, natural erection they've been seeking, but it also re-kindles and intensifies the flames of sexual desire in both men and women.

It's called Noxitril. It's not a drug, vitamin or mineral.

It is four, exceptionally powerful nutritional supplements squeezed into a single capsule.

Have Fun Again

Noxitril safely restores sexual enjoyment and performance by reinforcing the four pillars of sexual revitalization: boosting testosterone; elevating natural reserves of nitric oxide, or erection fuel; sparking sexual urges and libidinous desires; and energizing sexual energy and vitality.

Ask users if Noxitril works as well as prescription ED drugs, and many may say, "No, it works better!"

Noxitril formulators have fast-tracked results with the addition of an energizing ginseng blend and a proprietary mix of 13 peak-performance, firestarters including muira puma, catauba, and tribulus.

The Miracle of Rapid Tumescence

Noxitril gives men what they, and their lovers want most – rapid tumescence, or fast-developing erections.

While there are many prescription-sold drugs that boost testosterone in the body, Noxitril contains one of the only natural sources that can consistently elevate this important hormone required for satisfying intimacy.

Sexual Urges Return

Noxitril scientists have harnessed unique ex-

Clinically tested, botanical firestarters electrify body and mind, restoring blood flow, creating sexual desire.

tracts from the tongkat ali tree in Malaysian rainforests.

Biochemicals in this libido-boosting botanical have been shown in research to increase testosterone levels.

Natural Testosterone Rise

Noxitril locks-in instant-readiness by helping elevate and increase natural testosterone production.

Regardless of age or physical health, this natural boost in testosterone encourages a powerful sex drive, enhanced sexual function, more sexual energy, and a more pleasurable sexual experience for both sexes.

Confident Performance

For Noxitril user, David P., this prescription-free formula has been life-changing.*

"It helped get my confidence back to where it used to be," smiles David.

"Noxitril made me feel ready when the opportunity arises and helped me keep my love life exciting."

Locked... and Loaded

"I'd recommend this for guys who may have had any kind of trouble in the past and want to ensure they'll be ready every time," adds David.

"It's a definite confidence booster and decreases anxiety, too!"

But for men over the age of 50, increasing testosterone is, by itself, not enough to fully restore waning sexual powers.

Noxitril not only helps increase performance behind closed doors, it can also give men the potential to blow the door off its hinges!

The secret? Copious amounts of... 'erection fuel.'

Noxitril Begins with 'NO'

For a man to enjoy a healthy, robust erection, he needs ample amounts of a substance called nitric oxide, or 'NO.'

When NO levels are too low, often age-related, it becomes physically impossible for a man to achieve an erection.

Noxitril contains a fast-absorbing amino acid called L-arginine, which is readily converted to nitric oxide.

The more L-arginine a man consumes, the more nitric oxide he possesses... the more nitric oxide a man has, the larger and harder his response.

Eye-Popping Difference

Doug. F. is sold on Noxitril. "I have tried most of these new, natural male enhancements; none of them do what Noxitril does for me."

"Not only does it work fast, but I can also last for a while. I have recommended to all my friends who have the same problem."

Works for Women, Too

Noxitril is equally effective for men and women. Like Viagra, arginine in Noxitril helps increase blood flow to the genital area, potentially increasing sensation to the sex organs and enhancing the pleasures of lovemaking... for both sexes.

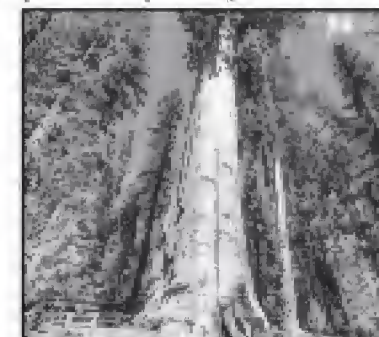

Feel the Urge

Noxitril sparks sexual desire with a prized extract called Maca.

In one study a whopping 60 percent of healthy subjects experienced enhanced sexual satisfaction from using this amazing herb. The placebo group's score was just as surprising — zero percent!

In another study, test subjects were asked to consume maca, just like that found in Noxitril, exactly one hour before sexual activity.

A full two-thirds of male patients unexpectedly experienced increased penile axial rigidity, or harder erections.

New, four-in-one, nutritional supplement creates 'redwood effect' in aging males.

John M., age 67, says that Noxitril has made his life so easy. "No more doctor's visits, no more prescriptions, and no more side effects," laughs John.*

Where will 'Fear the Walking Dead' go in Season 4's second half?

Following the midseason finale's monumental loss, the AMC series is trying new things. ANDREW HUSBAND

This Sunday, the second half of "Fear the Walking Dead" Season 4 will premiere on AMC. We have no idea if it will provide any satisfactory answers for all the burning questions posed by the first half, though judging by a few clips teasing things to come, and occasional comments from showrunners Ian Goldberg and Andrew Chambliss, something is coming. Here are a few predictions about what that might be.

Another crossover?

The arrival of Morgan Jones (Lennie James) in season four presented "Fear the Walking Dead" with a major "The Walking Dead" crossover. Since the somewhat deranged traveler's departure from the latter's Alexandria stronghold, audiences have been left to ponder if, and when, another crossover would happen. As former "The Walking Dead" showrunner Scott Gimple said at SDCC, fans shouldn't "expect" another one, "but things could happen."

What's in store for Morgan and company? AMC

Will Morgan leave?

Adding fuel to the crossover fire is the fact that, per a midseason premiere clip previewed exclusively by TV Guide, it seems Morgan wants to go back to Alexandria. "I'm heading back east in the morning," he tells Alicia Clark (Alicia Debnam-Carey), the surviving daughter of Madison. "Heading back where I came from, and I think you should come along."

YOUR WEEKEND STARTS NOW

ARTS & CULTURE

FOG X FLO

In honor of the Emerald Necklace Conservancy's 20th anniversary, "fog sculptures" will take over parks around the Emerald Necklace beginning this weekend. Created by Boston's own Fujiko Nakaya, the celebrated artist has spent decades working with the "climate responsive" medium. The presentations will be on view hourly, from dusk until dawn, at five sites through Oct. 31. Begins Aug. 11, various locations, free, emeralnecklace.org/20th

FAMILY

Out of the Park

Just because the Red Sox are away this weekend doesn't mean you can't enjoy some live-baseball action. For the fifth year in a row, Boston fans will get the chance to see a free screening of a game outdoors during the Out of the Park event on the Common. In addition to showing the Red Sox vs. Orioles game live from Camden Yards, Sunday's festivities include free food, appearances by Wally the Green Monster and his sister Tessie, face painting, a virtual reality station and more. L.L.Bean will also be on hand with its Bootmobile, which is bringing an archery accuracy challenge. Aug. 12, 11:30 a.m., Boston Common, free, highlandstreet.org/programs/community-events/out-park

FOOD & DRINKS

Fenway Fridays Brew Deck

The weekly Fenway Fridays block party is kicking things up a notch with a new Brew Deck series. On select Fridays through September, Tasty Burger will give its outdoor lot a makeover, complete with music, lawn games and, of course, plenty of food and brews. Lord Hobo Brewing Co. is also getting in on the fun and will introduce its latest limited release, the Pilot Series 18-03, when the festivities kick off Aug. 10. Aug. 10, 24, 31 and Sept. 21, 4 p.m.-10 p.m., Tasty Burger, 1301 Boylston St., free admission, thefenway.com

Tour de Fat

The beer-filled fun continues on Saturday thanks to New Belgium Brewing. This roving celebration will stop at City Hall Plaza for day of dedicated to craft brews and bike culture. The event will feature more of a festival vibe thanks to live music and funky costumes. Proceeds will also go to benefit cycling nonprofits. Aug. 11, noon-5 p.m., City Hall Plaza, $15, 21+, newbelgium.com/events/tour-de-fat/tour-de-fat-2018-boston

MUSIC

Billy Joel, Jimmy Buffett and more Fenway Park concerts

Fenway Park will be rocking all weekend long. Head to Margaritaville on Thursday night with Jimmy Buffett and the Coral Reefer Band, as well as country-pop singer Caroline Jones who'll serve as the evening's opener. On Friday, the one and only Billy Joel returns for a record fifth year in a row at the historic ballpark. The fun finishes up on Saturday with performances by Journey and Def Leppard. Make sure to try a Def Leppard Pale brew, which the band created in collaboration with Elysian Brewing Company. Aug. 9-11, Fenway Park, 4 Jersey St., mlb.com/redsox/tickets/concerts. MATT JULI

WEARING PLASTIC GLOVES DOES NOT SOLVE EVERYTHING!

I guess the health department

(the same one that can give a restaurant an A when they have roaches but a B because they have a newspaper on the counter) makes a lot of workers at bakeries and delis wear gloves.....but wearing them is often LESS sanitary. I have seen countless people wearing gloves touch the cash register, their hair, and most offensively, some oozy smelly cheese pizza, cold cuts and THEN touch my blueberry muffin. And THEN touch one of those things AGAIN. I usually have to ask them to use the tissue paper even with their gloves on...in reality if they just frequently wash their hands AND use tissue paper, that is much better with little danger of contamination or cross-flavor issues!

Aries Focus on personal gains and physical improvements. Don't let anyone discourage you from spending time or money to get ahead. Invest in you.

Libra Get moving. Make a point to take care of business that is hanging over your head. Don't wait until someone else steps in and takes charge. Live up to your expectations.

Taurus Don't act on an emotional whim. An added expense will leave you scrambling later in the month. Protect against theft, poor investments and impractical moves.

Scorpio Consider what's at stake before you make a move that is likely to cause trouble between you and someone you care about. Diplomacy will be required.

Gemini Spend more time working out details that will help you avoid an expense you can avoid with proper planning. Personal improvements should be a priority.

Sagittarius Chase your dream. Activate your plans. Look forward and own whatever you do. Your passionate and timely gestures will have an impact on what's to come.

Cancer Take the time to find out where you stand. Ask questions and discuss your intentions and plans with someone who can affect your decision.

Capricorn Know what you want and make whatever changes are required to reach your goal. Personal gratification will come from following through with your plans.

Leo If you push yourself, the satisfaction and results you get will be outstanding and will keep anyone trying to distract you in his or her place. Focus and win.

Aquarius Share your enthusiasm with others, but don't let anyone take control or entice you to expand too quickly or take on too much. Stick to your set plans.

Virgo Emotional or physical support can be just as compelling as financial aid, and can offer greater satisfaction for both you and the individual you assist.

The Center for Reproductive Rights weighs in on how Brett Kavanaugh could overturn the Supreme Court's precedent on what liberty means.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
nikki.mascali@metro.us

With the confirmation hearings for President Donald Trump's conservative Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh expected to begin next month, the future of Roe v. Wade and other rights hang in the balance.

Brett Kavanaugh is Trump's second Supreme Court nomination, one that, if approved, would bring the president closer to making good on his campaign promise to

Kavanaugh's SCOTUS confirmation: The future of reproductive rights

Amy Myrick of the Center for Reproductive Rights weighs in on how Brett Kavanaugh could overturn the Supreme Court's precedent on Roe v. Wade. PROVIDED overturn Roe v. Wade.

Kavanaugh would replace retiring Justice Anthony Kennedy, who has served as a swing vote at critical times the 1973 landmark abortion rights case was threatened. With his expected confirmation, the Center for Reproductive Rights said on its website that "we may now face the greatest risk to the future of reproductive rights in the United

To elaborate further on what confirming Brett Kavanaugh to the Supreme Court would really mean for the future of Roe v. Wade, we spoke to Amy Myrick, staff attorney for judicial strategy at the Center for Reproductive Rights.

"Brett Kavanaugh has at least one serious red flag on reproductive rights in his record, and that is his case that he decided about abortion rights of immigrant minors," Myrick said. "He decided it in a way that did not respect the right to abortion, and it raises the stakes and the importance of a complete vetting and him having to answer what does he really think liberty means."

ugh's confirmation be? Amy Myrick: Justice Kennedy was the vote on the Supreme Court who upheld reproductive rights, the right to abortion, at critical times it was really threatened. He was the swing vote that assured that right would not be overturned as long as he was on the court. Replacing Justice Kennedy with someone who was going to be on the other side of those votes and would overturn or seriously weaken Roe's protections would mean that the right to abortion could be overturned completely or weakened so much that it's not meaningful.

Is there a current justice who could be that critical swing vote? That's unknowable — every time the court is reconstituted, its approach changes, and the justices interact with each other and come to each issue anew every time it's before them. There's no way we can make predictions about that, but the court has said it cares — and should care — about precedent once it's been established as a core constitutional principle that people rely on.

"We may now face the greatest risk to the future of reproductive rights in the United States."

Center for Reproductive Rights

What would overturning Roe v. Wade do? That doctrine is about how to define liberty, so over time, the court has defined liberty to include rights that are not written into the text of the Constitution, but are really core principles of liberty. That includes not just abortion, but also the right to use contraception, to get married to the person of one's choice, the right to have consensual sex with a partner of one's choice, the right to raise children, the right to have children — all these rights are not in the Constitution, but the court has recognized all of them because of the way it's read liberty.

Overturning Roe would be taking a huge part of that back, which would really drastically undermine its whole approach to the Constitution that it's held for the past 40-plus years.

What needs to happen in the forthcoming confirmation hearings for Brett Kavanaugh? The Senate can't confirm somebody who hasn't demonstrated clearly and unequivocally that he or she supports the approach to the Constitution that has been used to find and protect the right to abortion and other kinds of fundamental liberties rights over time. We can't allow someone to skate by without making a clear statement about that like nominees have tried to do in the past. Nominees try to get out of talking about how they view constitutional interpretation, which is core to how somebody is going to serve as a justice. Those questions are completely legitimate and have to be answered before someone can get confirmed.

NY Congressman Collins, son charged with insider trading

The indictment came as the Republican was seeking a fourth two-year term in November's elections.

Christopher Collins, a Republican U.S. congressman from New York who was one of President Donald Trump's earliest supporters, was criminally charged on Wednesday with taking part in an insider trading scheme involving an Australian biotechnology company on whose board he served.

The indictment came as Collins, 68, was seeking a fourth two-year term in November's elections, where Democrats hope to recapture the House of Representatives.

Two lawyers for Collins, Jonathan Barr and Jonathan New, said in a statement that they were confident he would be "completely vindicated and exonerated," and that they would "mount a vigorous defense to clear his good name."

The indictment charged Collins, his son Cameron, and Stephen Zarsky, the father of Cameron Collins' fiancée, with securities fraud, wire fraud and other crimes. All three also face civil charges by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Amanda Bassen, a lawyer for Zarsky, declined to comment. Lawyers for Cameron Collins could not immediately be reached.

The case related to Innate Immunotherapeutics Ltd., where Christopher Collins sat on the board and held a 16.8 percent stake.

Prosecutors said that in June 2017, Collins learned in an email from Innate's chief executive that a trial for its proposed secondary multiple sclerosis drug MIS416 had failed.

According to the indictment, Collins passed that information on to his son, who in turn passed the news to his fiancée, Zarsky and a friend. Zarsky went on to tip his brother, his sister and a friend, the indictment said.

Christopher Collins did not trade his own Innate stock, which lost millions of dollars in value, according to the indictment.

Prosecutors said the congressman knew he was "virtually precluded" from trading in part because he already faced a congressional ethics probe related to his Innate holdings.

However, prosecutors said others avoided more than $768,000 in losses when Innate's share price plunged to 3.5 cents from 45 cents after the drug trial results were announced.

Collins represents New York's solidly Republican 27th Congressional District, and nonpartisan analysts predict he will win re-election. The district includes areas surrounding Buffalo and Rochester in the northwestern part of the state. REUTERS

Great wine tours to get you out of the city for the weekend

It's OK.
You deserve it!PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

You don't have to explain it to us. Working a nine-to-five during the summer can be downright mentally and spiritually exhausting. Sometimes you just need to get away from it all at least for the weekend. On top of that, sometimes you just need a glass of wine or two. So why not combine the two? Here are some of the best wine tours to help you get away from the city this summer.

Day Trip to Wine Country

Where: Long Island, New York
Cost: $155-$165
Who says that the only way to get the full vineyard experience you need to go to Napa Valley? New Yorkers can take this round-trip bus ride from just outside of Grand Central station for one best all-inclusive wine tours on the East Coast. Guests will be treated to samples, small bites and discounts on bottles from each stop at Jamesport Vineyards, Palmer Vineyards, Martha Clara Vineyards, Pellegrini Vineyards, Pindar Vineyards and Lenz Winery.

The "Day Trip to Wine Country" will be booking wine tours up until November, so make sure to head over to newyorkwineevents.com for availability.

Back Bay Wine Tasting and Walking Tour

Where: Boston
Cost: $70
This walking wine tour will pair you with a knowledgeable and eager tour guide who will show you the best wines available in downtown Boston. Over two hours, you will be educated on the best blends and pairings of local cuisines. Starting at the rustic Post 390 and walking nearly 2 miles to the famous Legal Sea Foods with its 10,000-bottle selection, this is one of the more educational wine tours you are likely to find on the East Coast.

For more information and availability, go to citywinetours.com.

Chaddsford Winery Reserve & Tasting Tour

Where: Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania
Cost: $20 plus the cost of wine
Just 45 minutes outside Philly in the Brandywine Valley the Chaddsford Winery "Reserve & Tasting Tour" is the best wine-tasting trip you can book if you are looking to get out of city for the day. Tickets for this tour will cost you $20 if you book in advance and you will get special access to special prices on dry red wine, dry white wine, and sweet wine flights.

For more information and to schedule your own wine tours, head over to chaddsford.com.

Water to Wine Day Tours

Where: Cayuga Lake, Western New York
Cost: $99-$109
This off-the-beaten path trip is one of the more adventurous tours you will be able to take in New York State. The Water To Wine Day Tours set sail each day treating passengers to a five-hour voyage aboard on Cayuga Lake with tastings at three wineries with special prices on bottles. Unlimited wine tasting for five-hours aboard a boat? What's not to love?

3 Things to watch for as Patriots take on Redskins

After an insane offseason, the Patriots will take the Gillette Stadium field Thursday.

MATT BURKE
matthew.burke@metro.us

Finally, we get our first glimpse of the Patriots in pads against an actual NFL opponent following the most bizarre offseason in franchise history. The Pats will play a game on the Gillette Stadium turf for the first time since their thrilling AFC Championship game victory over the Jacksonville Jaguars in late January, as they host the Washington Redskins on Thursday (7:30 p.m., WBZ 4) in the first of their four preseason games this month.

Here are three things to watch for Thursday night.

1 Will Brady and Gronk play?

There has been a running joke that because of how disgruntled the Patriots' top two stars were this offseason — with both players hinting at retirement if things didn't change for the better — that Bill Belichick would play them the full 60 minutes in the first preseason game of the year as a sort of punishment.

Belichick is the vengeful type for sure, but looking to get his top two offensive players injured in an exhibition game would qualify as internal sabotage. Belichick is an odd duck, but this would be Poopity Scoop level strange.

There is a chance we see some of Brady, though. In the past five preseasons, he saw action in the first game two times — playing in two series in 2013 and 2015. Interestingly enough, the past three preseasons in which he did not participate in preseason Game 1 — the Pats wound up going to the Super Bowl.

Meanwhile, Gronk has played in just two preseason games in the past five years — with both coming last year in Weeks 2 and 3.

2 Eye opener?

Many Patriots fans that have come to expect a deep playoff run every single year are worried about this group. There is no denying there is turmoil within the organization, and things just feel different this August. Belichick's training camp has been noticeably lackadaisical and chill this year, which is leading some to believe he is actually caving to the wants of Brady and Gronk to have a more "fun" atmosphere in Foxboro.

As gruff as he is, Belichick is one of the great chameleons in

Will Tom Brady and Rob Gronkowski see action on Thursday night? GETTY IMAGES

NFL history. He changes philosophies and his coaching style on a day-to-day basis, let alone a year-to-year basis. Perhaps the "easy way" will wind up as a benefit in the long-run to this fatigued franchise that has played into February in each of the past two seasons.

Of course, if the Pats look like garbage on Thursday night — the "dynasty is dead" alarms will sound immediately.

3 The new guy

The fluff pieces on newly acquired receiver Eric Decker are coming in hot with some even suggesting he could lead the team in receiving yards this season. There's also the chance the Pats cut him before the regular season starts. That's just the Patriot Way.

All kidding aside, Decker is still just 31-years-old. That's old for a receiver but considering Julian Edelman is 32, and recently departed WR Danny Amendola is 32 as well — there's a definite chance that Decker could be a key contributor to the Patriots' offense this year.

Decker was Marcus Mariota's third option for the Titans last season as he fell behind Delanie Walker and Rishard Matthews in production. Tennessee was far from a pass-happy offense in 2017, as Mariota only attempted 453 passes (21st in the NFL). The last two times Decker played in a pass-happy system, however (with Ryan Fitzpatrick with the Jets, and with Peyton Manning with the Broncos), he registered 1,000-yard receiving seasons.

HAITIAN AND SPANISH SPOKEN CALL 508-718-8842 FOR INFORMATION

Sale set to return on Sunday

There is top heavy, and then there is the American League East. The Red Sox have 80 wins. The Yankees have 70.

Then there is a giant drop-off.

Tampa Bay is in third place in the division but has just 57 wins and is 22.5 games behind the Sox for first place. The Blue Jays are 28 games out with a 51-61 record, and the pathetic Orioles are a whopping 45.5 games behind the Sox with a 34-79 mark.

Lucky for the Red Sox, they can coast this weekend and still keep racking up the wins. They will close out their series with the Blue Jays on Thursday and then will get to go to Cupcake Camden Yards for a three-game set with the O's.

The most intriguing action of the weekend in Maryland will take place on Sunday afternoon (1:05, NESN) when Chris Sale returns to the mound for the Sox after missing time due to shoulder inflammation. It will be Sale's first start since July 27 against the Twins, where he allowed just three hits over 6.0 innings of work. MATT BURKE

CITATION GIVING NOTICE OF PETITION TO EXPAND THE POWERS OF A CONSERVATOR

Docket No. SU15P3175PM

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
The Trial Court
Probate and Family Court in the interests of: Mary Crazier
OF: Boston, MA

RESPONDENT Incapacitated Person/Protected Person

To the named Respondent and all other interested persons, a petition has been filed by Mary C McGee of Lynn, MA in the above-captioned matter requesting that the court:

Suffolk Probate and Family Court
24 New Chardon Street, Boston, MA 02114

Expand the powers of a Conservator of the Respondent.

The petition asks the court to make a determination that the powers of the Guardian and/or Conservator should be expanded, modified, or limited since the time of the appointment. The original petition is on file with the court.

You have the right to object to this proceeding. If you wish to do so, you or your attorney must file a written appearance at this court on or before 10:00 A.M. on the return date of 08/23/2018. This day is NOT a hearing date, but a deadline date by which you have to file the written appearance if you object to the petition. If you fail to file the written appearance by the return date, action may be taken in this matter without further notice to you. In addition to filing the written appearance, you or your attorney must file a written affidavit stating the specific facts and grounds of your objection within 30 days after the return date.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The outcome of this proceeding may limit or completely take away the above-named person's right to make decisions about personal affairs or financial affairs or both. The above-named person has the right to ask for a lawyer. Anyone may make this request on behalf of the above-named person. If the above-named person cannot afford a lawyer, one may be appointed at State expense.

WITNESS, Hon. Brian J. Dunn, First Justice of this Court.
